

2022 Summer School Undergraduate Financial Aid Application For Students Enrolled in Degree Programs

Review this information carefully before making the decision to enroll in summer classes. To avoid taking on additional debt, Student Registration and Financial Services (SRFS) recommends that you attend summer classes only if absolutely necessary.

Highly Aided students may have 1 CU of undergraduate course work covered in a Summer term with grant funding. Students who are highly aided and wish to take over 1 CU in the Summer should consult with their academic advisor as the only form of funding available above 1 CU will be loans.

Applications must be received by the appropriate application deadline:

- If you want to receive notification of summer aid eligibility prior for Summer Session I, you must submit your application by May 1, 2022.
- If you want to receive notification of summer aid eligibility prior for Summer Session II, you must submit your application by June 4, 2022.
- Applications submitted after deadline will not be accepted and financial assistance will not be available for summer costs.

Eligibility

To be considered for institutional aid to attend Summer school, you must:

- Be registered in 1 undergraduate CU in either Summer session 1 or 2
- Be a continuing student enrolled in a Penn undergraduate program
- Be enrolled in courses that are applied to your degree
- Not be in default on a federal or Penn student loan
- Received need-based financial aid from Penn in 2021-2022
- Note: If funding is needed for living expenses you may borrow a loan if enrolled in at least 2 CUs. 1 CU may be covered with grant funding.

Summer School Information

Financial Aid

Penn's grant-based undergraduate financial aid program does not extend into summer sessions, and students should understand in advance that most aid will be available in the form of federal or private student loans. Limited grant funding is available for highly aided undergraduate students. Students can learn more about summer financial aid on the Student Registration & Financial Services website

Federal Work-Study

If you are planning to enroll in classes and also want Federal Work-Study, you should complete the Federal WorkStudy application available on the Student Employment website at <https://srfs.upenn.edu/student-employment>. The Federal Work-Study application will be available on the SRFS website at the end of April 2022. You must also submit your 2021-2022 and 2022-2023 FAFSAs. If you decide to participate in the Federal Work-Study Program during the summer, your ability to borrow loan funding might be affected.

To Apply

- Review the eligibility criteria and Summer School information on the preceding page.
- Submit the completed Undergraduate Financial Aid Application for Summer School 2022 by the appropriate deadline. If you want to receive notification of summer aid eligibility prior for Summer Session I, you must submit your application by May 1, 2022. If you want to receive notification of summer aid eligibility prior for Summer Session II, you must submit your application by June 4, 2022. Applications submitted after deadline will not be accepted and financial assistance will not be available for summer costs.

After You Apply

- Notification - We will send you an email once your financial aid notice is available. You will be able to review your financial aid through Penn InTouch at <http://www.upenn.edu/pennintouch>.

If Dropping, Adding or Replacing courses

- Drop/Add - Complete a revised summer school application if you add, drop or replace courses that will affect the amount of your tuition and fees charged. SFA will recalculate your financial aid eligibility, and produce a revised notification letter. It is your responsibility to notify SFA of any changes in enrollment that may affect tuition and fees (For example: replacing a Wharton course with a College Course).
 - To apply for a Federal Direct Loan please email stuloans@pobox.upenn.edu
 - Please include: your full name, PennID, type of loan, loan period and loan amount requested.
 - The application needs to be completed as early as possible and no later than July 1, 2022.*

Failure to comply with these deadlines will result in loss of funding
